Yevgenia
Olegovna
Kanayeva (born 2 April 1990) is a Russian retired individual rhythmic gymnast, known for

She is the only individual rhythmic gymnast in history to win two Olympic all-around gold medals, winning at the 2008 Summer Olympics, where she finished with 3.75 points ahead of silver medalist Inna Zhukova, and at the 2012

Kanayeva holds the record for most World titles with seventeen and thirteen European titles. Kanayeva shares the record for most individual world all-around titles with Maria Petrova, Maria Gigova and fellow Russian gymnast Yana Kudryavtseva, and Kanayeva is the one of only two gymnasts to have won all three titles

At the 2009 World Championship in Mie, Japan, Kanayeva became the first rhythmic gymnast to win all six titles. She repeated the feat at the 2011 World Championship in Montpellier, France, equaling her own record.

Kanayeva is the only gymnast to receive a perfect score under the 30-point judging system, having done so twice: in the 2011

in the 2012

Thanks to Yevgenia Kanayeva I began to love what I do. When I looked at the performances of this gymnast, I immediately wanted to train more and better. I became a master of sports in rhythmic gymnast, I realized that without diligence, discipline and love of sports, it will not be possible to achieve success. An
