Presidential election in Kazakhstan

A presidential election is the election of any head of state whose official title is President.

- The first presidential election was held in 1991.
- The second presidential election in 1999 was the first competitive election
- Kazakhstan's third presidential election took place on 4 December 2005.
- the next presidential election in 2012.

February 14 at a meeting of members of the Assembly of People of Kazakhstan expressed unanimous support to numerous appeals of citizens, took the initiative to hold early presidential elections in Kazakhstan.

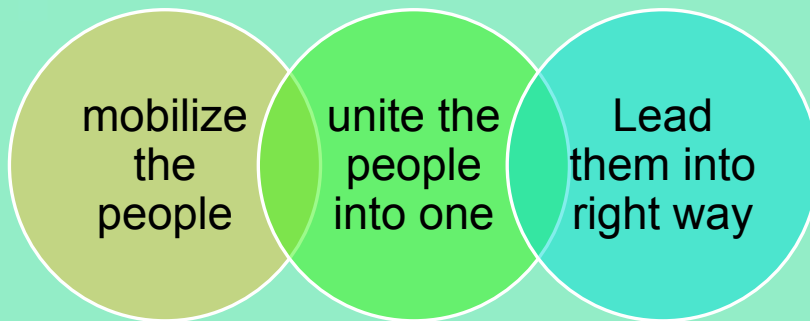

In terms of increasing global economic crisis, the holding of early presidential elections will allow

- the country to effectively implement the program "Nurly Jol" ;
- continue the implementation of long-term priorities of the country.

The way that give an opportunity to formulate all of them is to give a mandate.

Political point

First of all, it is a legal part of the question. Holding of presidential elections and parliamentary elections during the same year contradicts the norms of the Constitution. We need to make a choice. It is also obvious that presidential elections have greater importance for the society and country.

Economic situation

- instability of the global economy
- prices for metals and oil
- complicated situations in our trading partners.

Russia has some problems

the sanctions of western countries

- developed an anti-crisis program called "Nurly-Zhol" in advance;
- of big infrastructural projects;
- small and medium-sized business;
- creation and preserving of jobs

The head of the state N. A. Nazarbaev:

to hold early presidential elections in the country

a referendum to extend the powers of the head of state

Nomination of the presidential candidate

- STARTED FEBRUARY 26
- WILL END ON MARCH 15, 2015

Requirements:

- The country's public associations, registered in the prescribed manner, as well as citizens (by self-nomination) have the right to nominate candidates for president, according to CEC.
- In order to participate in the presidential election, a candidate should collect signatures of at least one percent of the total number of voters equally representing at least two thirds of the provinces, as well as the cities of Almaty and Astana, according to Kazakh CEC.
- The registration of the presidential candidates will start after the candidates submit all required documents to the CEC and will end on March 25. 2015.

- The presidential candidate should transfer around 1.60 million Kazakh tenge (184.75 tenge = $1) worth fee to the account of CEC before the registration and after verifying the compliance with the requirements envisaged in the constitution and constitutional law, said the CEC.
- Moreover, the CEC said that before the registration, the candidate and his/her spouse should submit a declaration about the income and property as of Feb.1, 2015 to the tax authorities in the place of residence.
- Also for the campaign, presidential candidates have the right to create election funds, which are formed from the personal funds of the candidate, funds of a public association which nominated him and voluntary donations of citizens and organizations. The maximum possible sum of the electoral fund of a candidate for the presidency is about 55 million tenge.

Presidential election in Kazakhstan is financed from the funds of the republican budget.

According to the Constitution

“ Participating in the presidential election requires an individual to be a citizen of Kazakhstan, not younger than 40 years old, fluent in the state language (Kazakh) and living in Kazakhstan for the last 15 years”

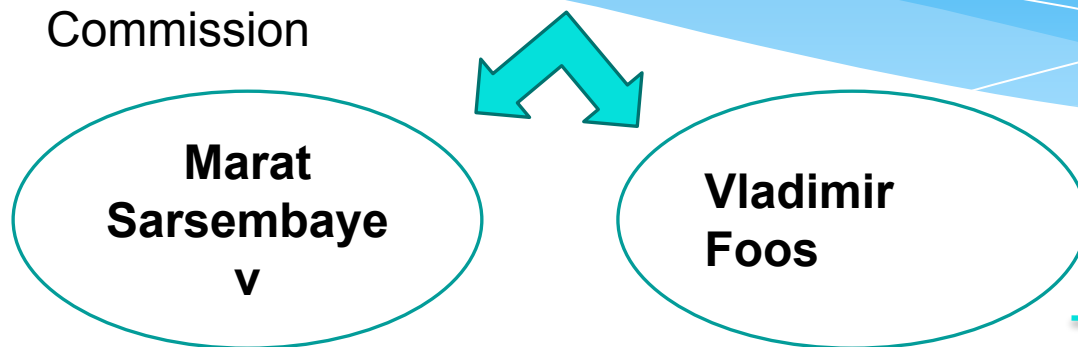

PROCEDURE OF VOTING

- The voting at the presidential election in Kazakhstan will be held from 7:00 to 20:00 local time on April 26.
- The Central Election Commission has to establish the results of the presidential election and make appropriate decision not later than May, 3.

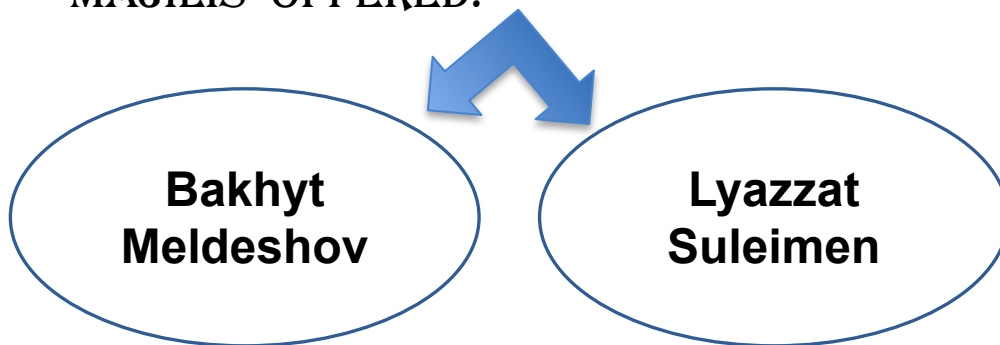

CENTRAL ELECTION COMMISSION

Two Houses of Parliament - the Senate and Majilis shall have the right to elect two candidates to the Central Election Commission

MAJILIS OFFERED:

- several tasks :
- determine the level of state language fluency;
- examine presidential candidates on Kazakh language fluency

CEC refused to register of 3 people as presidential candidates
