
Adjective or noun?

Friendship or friendly?

"I shouldn't be too friendly to them, Hagrid," said Filch coldly, they're here to be punished, after all."

Friendship or friendly?

"You're the one who is weak. You will never know love or friendship.
And I feel sorry for you."

Bravery or brave?

"There's no need to tell me I'm not brave enough to be in Gryffindor, Malfoy's already done that," Neville choked out.

Bravery or brave?

“There are all kinds of courage,” said Dumbledore, smiling. “It takes a great deal of bravery to stand up to our enemies, but just as much to stand up to our friends.” –The Sorcerer’s Stone

Courage or courageous?

"I always value bravery... Yes, boy, your parents were brave.... I killed your father first; and he put up a courageous fight... but your mother needn't have died... she was trying to protect you.... "

Care or careful?

"Me!" said Hermione. "Books! And cleverness! There are more important things - friendship and bravery and - oh Harry – be careful!"

Fear - fearful

"Call him Voldemort, Harry. Always use the proper name for things. Fear of a name increases fear of the thing itself."

Loyalty or loyal?

You might belong in Hufflepuff,
Where they are just and loyal,
Those patient Hufflepuffs are true
And unafraid of toil (тяжелый труд).

Help or helpful?

"Hi, Hagrid, want any help?" Ron asked, sticking his head through the branches.

Faith or faithful?

"... Unicorn blood has strengthened me, these past weeks... you saw faithful Quirrell drinking it for me in the forest... and once I have the Elixir of Life, I will be able to create a body of my own....

Power or powerful?

"Your mother died to save you. If there is one thing Voldemort cannot understand, it is love. He didn't realize that love as powerful as your mother's for you leaves its own mark. Not a scar, no visible sign...

Reason or reasonable?

“...To have been loved so deeply, even though the person who loved us is gone, will give us some protection forever. It is in your very skin. Quirrell, full of hatred, greed, and ambition, sharing his soul with Voldemort, could not touch you for this reason.”

Cleverness or clever?

The goblin was about a head shorter than Harry. He had a swarthy, clever face, a pointed beard and, Harry noticed, very long fingers and feet.

Honesty or honest?

"Where did you get it, Hagrid?" said Ron, crouching over the fire to get a closer look at the egg. "It must've cost you a fortune."

"Won it," said Hagrid. "Last night. I was down in the village having a few drinks and got into a game of cards with a stranger. Think he was quite glad to get rid of it, to be honest."

Generosity or generous?

“Let me show you the generous gift he’s made to the Slytherin team.”

Wisdom or wise?

"You think it's wise to trust Hagrid with something as important as this?"

Respect or respectful?

Hagrid looked at Harry with warmth and respect blazing in his eyes, but Harry, instead of feeling pleased and proud, felt quite sure there had been a horrible mistake. A wizard? Him?

Adventure or adventurous?

“After all, to the well organized mind, death is but the next great adventure.”

Albus Dambledore

Curiosity or curious?

“ Curiosity is not a sin...but we should exercise caution (проявлять осторожность) with our curiosity.”

–The Goblet of Fire
