

The European Day of Languages

26 September

celebrating linguistic diversity, plurilingualism and lifelong language learning

Origins

The European Day of Languages was first celebrated during the first European Year of Languages, 2001:

45 countries celebrated linguistic diversity and the ability to speak another language.

At the end of the Year, the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe declared a European Day of Languages to be celebrated on the 26th September each year.

The objectives of the European Day of Languages

- To draw people's attention to the importance of language learning
- To encourage people to learn more languages in order to increase plurilingualism and intercultural understanding;
- To promote the rich linguistic and cultural diversity of Europe;
- To encourage lifelong language learning in and out of school.

The European Day of Languages addresses to all citizens:

- the general public
- schools
- policy-makers
- the voluntary sector

EDL 2015 at the Moravská Třebová school, Czech Republic.

Our school had participated in an eTwinning project 'Postcards for the EDL' with 40 other schools from all over Europe. On September, 25th we had the postcards in different languages on display, we prepared a quiz for the pupils, they wandered through the school looking for the answers and we did some online activities on the EDL website.
