 - Consequently, lawyers can be
 - people who have received a legal education;
 - lawyers, law students;
 - practitioners in the field of law.

PROFESSION HISTORY

- The first founders of law as an industry were the ancient philosophers: Socrates, Aristotle, Plato. A great contribution to the development of lawmaking was made by religion. It was the 12 biblical commandments that formed the basis for the creation of laws.
- The first lawyers were priests who interpreted the law. For many centuries, mankind has perfected its interpersonal and international relations, and therefore the law should progress along with time and cover all spheres of human activity.
- Right now, the law is firmly entrenched in all areas of people's lives and represents an independent branch of knowledge. And the work of lawyers is becoming more and more important in people's lives

PROFESSIONALLY IMPORTANT QUALITIES

- To the profession of a lawyer, as well as to any other profession, various professional requirements are presented. This means that a lawyer must possess the necessary complex of qualities, professional knowledge, skills and abilities. Personal qualities include: high citizenship, intellectuality, morality, a developed sense of duty and responsibility for the performance of their duties, dedication to their work, a sense of irreconcilability with wrongdoings, justice, a high humanistic focus, adherence to professional ethics and personal integrity.

GROWTH OF THE PROFESSION IN THE LABOR MARKET

- Young professionals in the early career path should objectively evaluate their experience, because often they have to face the fact that their salary expectations are higher than employers are willing to pay them. It is better to start a lawyer's career in a large company in order to gain experience. Do not reject the offer of a recruiter first to practice. Of course, it is most preferable that after it a young person has the opportunity of further employment in the company staff.. If he is only ready to take on an internship, it is necessary to agree in advance on the provision of a recommendation on its completion. With the advice of a law firm, a novice specialist will find it much easier to obtain a permanent job

INFORMATION ON PAYMENT FOR THE PROFESSION

- young specialists with minimum experience (compensation amount 25000 rubles depending on the level of the company);
 - specialists with work experience (50000-80000 rubles);
 - highly qualified lawyers, including managers (150 000-200000 rubles).
- The level of income depends both on the experience and requirements for the candidate, and on the area of his responsibility.
 - Today, there is every reason to believe that in 2012 there will be an urgent need for highly specialized lawyers, so "broad specialists" and novice lawyers need to think about the direction in which they would like to develop further. If we talk about the needs of the market, then we can predict that the demand for corporate lawyers will continue to grow. This applies also to tax lawyers, and to personal lawyers, and to specialists engaged in real estate and land.. At the same time it is the work of highly specialized lawyers that employers are willing to pay well. In order to have a high income, you need an impressive experience in the field, experience with foreign counterparts and, of course, free English

CHANTING PROFESSION

Take a word, not a weapon!

A lawyer is a profession worthy.

It's for the brave, adamant!

The laws of Ohm and Newton

You can and do not comply,

But the letter of the firm Law

Do not you dare, comrade, to transgress! ...
