

The endangered animals

Prepared by Yuliana
Shcherbakova

The panda

Its name in Chinese means «big bear cat». A bear lives in mountain central China. It is easily recognized by the large black patches around its eyes, over the ears, and across its round body. Pandas diet is bamboo. The panda is in danger now. Scientists study these animals and try to save them. The panda is Chinas national symbol.

The polar bear

We are going to travel to some exotic places on our planet. Imagine you are in the North pole. The polar bear lives in the Arctic. It is a large bear. It is adapted for cold place. The bear can swim very well. It eats fish and meat. The polar bear becomes an endangered animal because of climate changes.

The Siberian tiger

The Siberian tiger is a big cat who lives in Russia and China. They have red and white color black stripes. The people kill them because of beautiful skin. They are very strong. The tiger catch fish. It sees in the dark five times better than man.

Thank You!

