

Places, where Harry Potter stories were filmed.

Alnwick Castle - Hogwarts

Leadenhall Market

Christchurch College Oxford

West Highland Railway Line

Kings Cross and St. Pancras Railway Station

Glencoe

Millennium Bridge

London Zoo

Thank you for attention!

Visual effects

Miniature Hogwarts — Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone(2001)

Flying Ford Anglia — Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets(2002)

Buckbeak — Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban (2004)

The Dumbledore vs. Voldemort Battle — Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix (2007)

Quidditch — Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince (2009)

The Death of Dobby — Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows – Part 1 (2010)

The Gringotts Dragon — Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows — Part 2 (2011)

The "Harry Potter" Movie Makeup

Mark Coulier worked on all eight of the Harry Potter films.

Lord Voldemort's makeup

It took 2 hours and 3 people.

Makeup was applied 70 times throughout all the movies.

Aunt Marge's inflatable fat suit

It took 20 people
4 months to build.

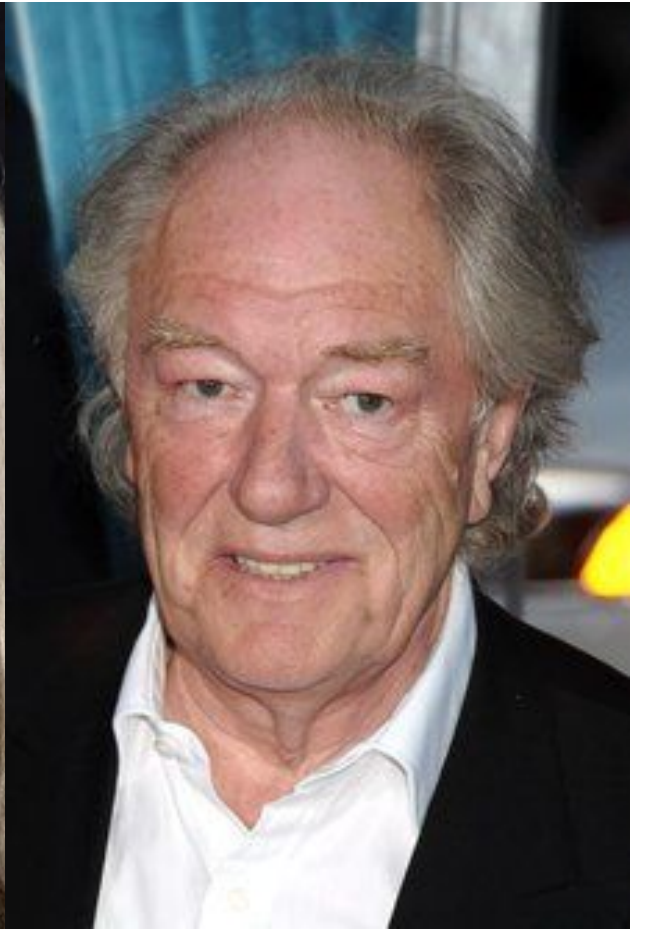

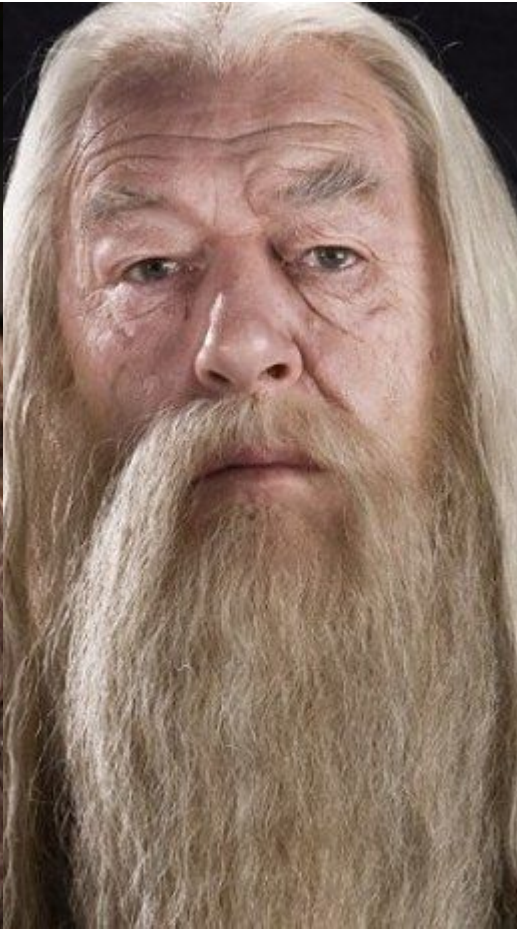

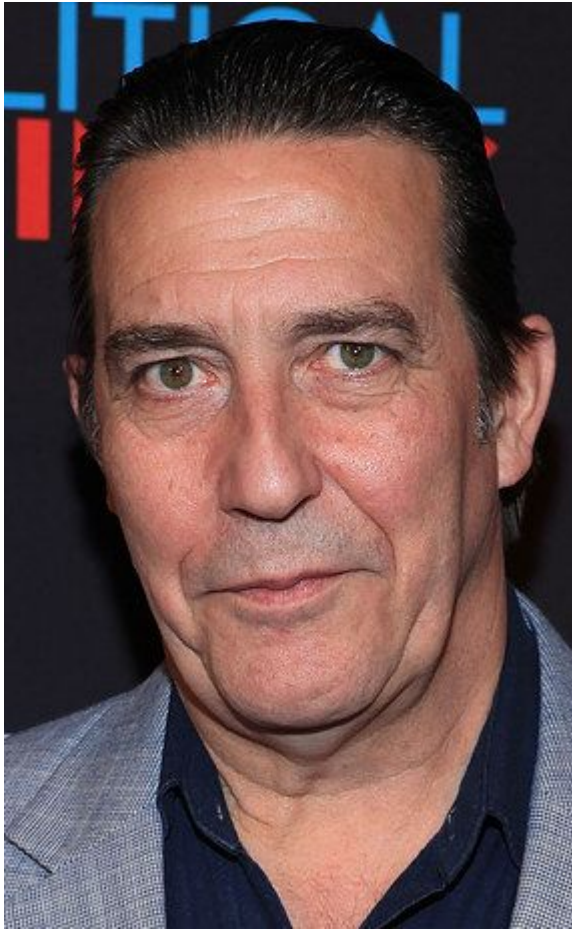

Harry's gillyweed scene was really intense

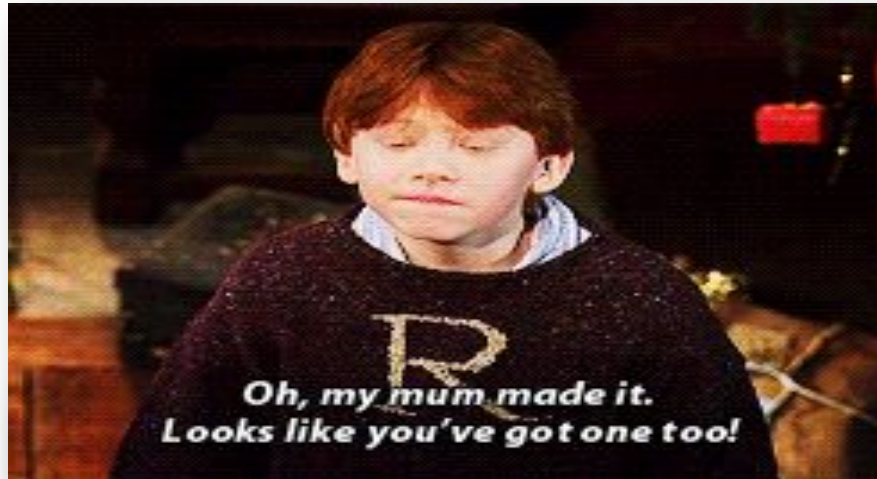

Aragog's body weighed one ton

Aberforth & Albus Dumbledore

Harry Potter universe style

Uniform

Uniform design, 1938–1945

The Hogwarts uniform consisted of a plain white buttoned shirt, a house tie (red, green, yellow or blue according to House), a thick grey knitted v-neck jumper (with a black neckline), grey trousers or breeches (for males) or gymslip with pleated skirt (for females), plain black shoes, an additional grey pocketed blazer (for males) or with an emblem varying according to which House the student was in and an open grey buttoned robe with the school crest on the chest. In the second and sixth films, Tom Riddle, Rubeus Hagrid and Myrtle Warren are seen wearing this uniform.

Uniform design, 1971–1978

The Hogwarts uniform consisted of a plain white buttoned shirt, a house tie (thin stripes) (red and gold, green and silver, yellow and black or blue and bronze, according to House) a thick grey knitted v-neck jumper (with a house coloured neckline), grey trousers (for males or pleated skirt (for females), plain black shoes and an open black tied robe with the student's house emblem.

Males also wore grey blazers under their robes and over their jumpers. Students seen wearing these uniforms are, Sirius Black, James Potter, Remus Lupin, Peter Pettigrew, Severus Snape and Lily Evans, all of them in the fifth film adaptation.

Uniform design, 1991–1993

Hogwarts uniform was changed quite a bit since the 1970s. The uniform no longer had a blazer and it now consisted of a plain white buttoned shirt, a house tie (thick stripes) (red and gold, green and silver, yellow and black or blue and bronze, according to House), a grey knitted v-neck jumper (with a house-coloured neckline), grey trousers (for males) or pleated skirt (for females), plain black shoes, grey socks, and an open black buttoned robe with the student's house emblem on. Hogwarts students are seen wearing this uniform in the first two film adaptations. This uniform design was used until the third film.

Uniform design. 1993–1998

This time the uniform consisted of a plain white buttoned shirt, a house tie (thin stripes) (red and gold, green and silver, yellow and black or blue and bronze, according to House), a charcoal grey knitted v-neck jumper, a cardigan or a sleeveless jumper (with cuffs and waist House-coloured), for boys, charcoal grey trousers were worn and for girls, a skirt (around knee-length). Girls also had to wear black tights or stockings. Charcoal grey socks were worn by boys. Students of both genders were required to wear plain black shoes and an open black silver fastened robe with the student's House emblem on and respective coloured lining.

