Education in Ukraine.

In Ukraine children go to primary school at the age of 6 or 7. Pupils study at primary school for 4 years. Here they learn to write and to read, get some basic knowledge of nature and history, they also have drawing, singing and physical culture lessons.

Secondary education is compulsory in our country. It is free and it is financed by the state. At school children study mathematics, geography, history, biology, chemistry, physics, astronomy, foreign languages and other subjects. They study there till 16 or 17 years of age. When finishing a secondary school pupils take a number of exams in native language, mathematics and some other subjects to receive Certificate of Secondary Education.

Having finished secondary school pupils may go to vocational schools, technical schools or enter any institute or university.

Vocational schools train future workers for plants and factories.

Technical schools give wider knowledge and skills in different subjects and train specialists (technicians, bookkeepers, secretaries, librarians, etc.) for different kinds of enterprises.

Those young boys and girls who want to continue their education after a secondary or a technical school may enter a university or an academy, or an institute. The admission there is selective and applicants have to take very difficult entrance exams.

Both for pupils and for students the school (academic) year begins on the 1st of September. This day called the Day of Knowledge. Pupils have holidays in autumn, winter, spring and two or three months holidays in summer. Students usually have two terms and take their exams in winter and in summer. After five years of studies they receive their diplomas and if someone feels that he has a special talent to some sciences he may take a post – graduate course.
