

Hello, my name is Victoria and I will tell you about my future profession!

Veterinarian (Latin veterinarius - "concerning working cattle") - a specialist with higher (veterinary doctor) or secondary special (veterinary paramedic) education, engaged in the treatment of animals and related duties.

Veterinarian is an ideal profession for those people who love animals and are ready to study this industry to the smallest detail. For many, this could have been a dream since childhood. But, as you grow up, dreams should continue because you are in a profession that is in demand.

Advantages of working as a veterinarian:

The profession is best suited to people who see it as their vocation. Unlike humans, animals have a much better sense of human intent. Therefore, a specialist, no matter how good he is, should only feel love and a desire to help. There is no place for anger or aggression here.

Best suited to people who can Express:

Compassion.
Love.
Determination.

A certain advantage is that it is not difficult to get a job as a veterinarian after training. Currently, there are a sufficient number of private and public institutions where such specialists work. Moreover, they are happy to hire able students who have not yet completed higher education.

Cons of working as a veterinarian

First of all, you need to list the main drawback of the profession – the need to diagnose the patient's condition solely by symptoms and secondary signs. Unlike humans, animals can't tell what hurts them or where. Therefore, it is very important to understand that it can be difficult to recognize a certain disease. In recognizing such things, the veterinarian must rely

There must also be an awareness that you can't help everyone. During the medical practice, each veterinarian will have to face the death of the "patient" or the need to euthanize him. This is emotionally very difficult in General, and for a person who takes any problems to heart,

The qualities that a specialist should have:

- Empathy, but also determination in the necessary moments.
- Collectedness.
- Clarity of actions and decisions.
- Force.
- Knowledge.
- Ability to work on a chaotic environment.
- The lack of disgust.
- Sharp vision, attention to detail.
