HOTEL RESERVATION SYSTEM

Hotel reservation systems are special catalog sites that work directly with hotels and offer convenient service of these hotels via the Internet. The largest reservation systems collected hundreds of thousands of hotels from almost all countries of the world.

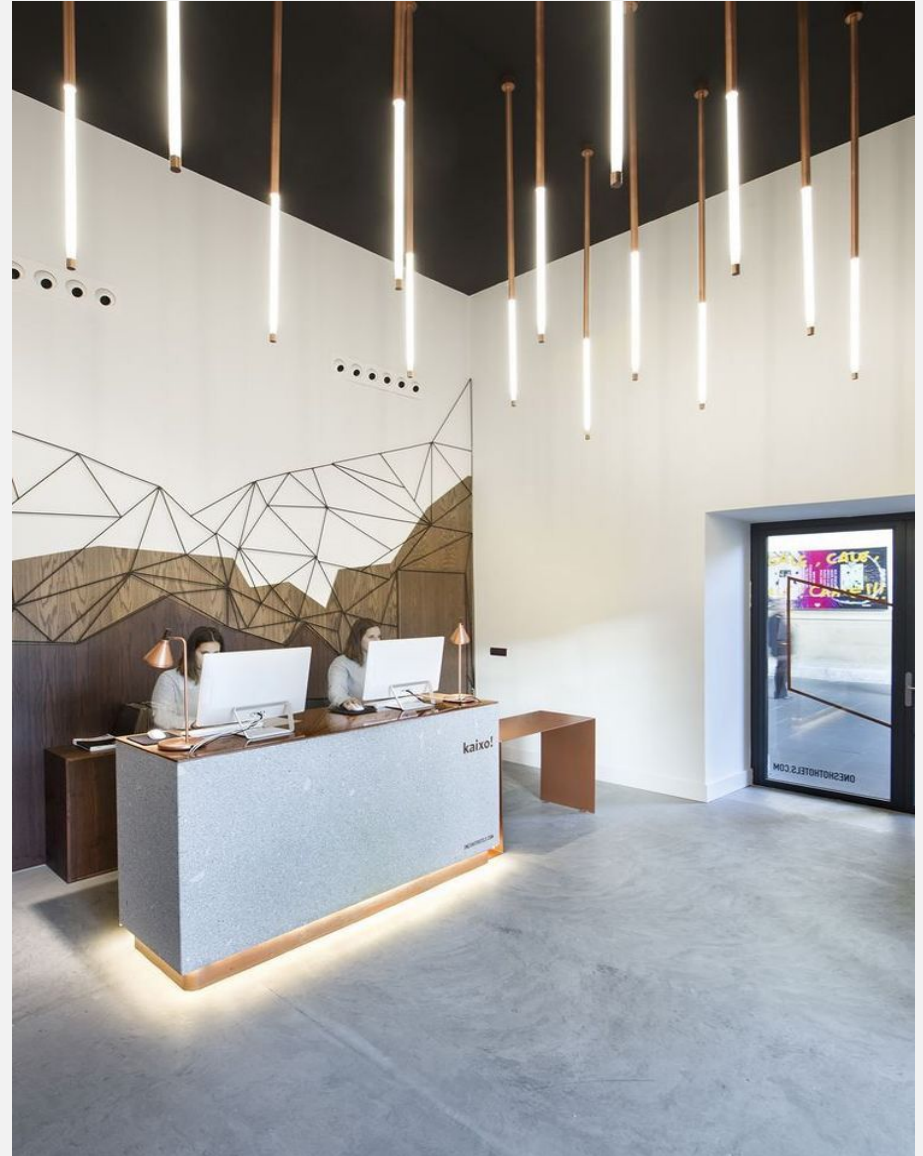

HOW TO BOOK ROOMS?

In hotels, as in any company, there are administrative services – a human resources department, an IT department, a security service. For the reception and service of guests responsible sales, booking, economic and engineering, as well as reception and

There is a hotel management system that automates the work of all departments. Bookings take place online through the hotel website or booking services. In addition, the guest can write an e-mail, call or simply come to the reception.

Most often, booking is carried out by the reservation department, but the sales department works with some clients, and at night the reception and accommodation services respond to requests.

Large services such as Booking.com are integrated with the hotel management system: when a person makes a reservation online, an update automatically appears in the program. Smaller services send requests by mail, and they are manually processed by a hotel employee.

WHAT ARE THE RESERVATION SYSTEMS?

The world's largest reservation system and the most popular in Russia is Booking.com. There are other major international players such as Expedia.com, Hotels.com and so on.

If we talk about sites that specialize in certain regions, we can note Agoda.com - the largest database of hotels in Asia and the best prices, Sawadee.com - specializes in hotels in Thailand, HRS.com - for the countries of Benelux, Expedia.com and Hotels.com for hotels in the USA, Venere.com for hotels in Italy and Ostorvok.ru for cheap hotels in Russia.

Especially in order not to sort out so many sites manually, they came up with very convenient search engines for comparing hotel prices. I am aware of two such systems - HotelsCombined and HotelLook. They search all possible reservation systems and show which of them offer the best price for the same hotel. Thus, if you use such a search engine, you can significantly save on a hotel.

Thanks for attention
