They need public servants who know business, and business people who know the public sector. They need men and women who can solve problems, but manage organizations. Leaders who have national perspective, and global vision.

That is why the #issranepa has decided to launch in 2018 a ground-breaking graduate program, the MSc in Global Leadership.

It combines, for the first time, an international standard, English-language, dual degree program in public and private sector management and leadership. Students can specialize in either an MPA or an MBA, graduating with a dual degree (either MSc/MPA or MSc/MBA).

The program has leading international faculty, sharing research, experiences and insights in a problem-focused, practical, and engaged teaching environment.

The MSc in Global Leadership will provide unique personal, educational, and professional opportunities, and be a solid foundation for careers that make a difference.
