

Thomas William Hiddleston

Thomas Hiddleston Born on February 9, Westminster, London. British actor of film, television, theater and sound, nominated for a BAFTA Award (2012).

Best known for the films:

"Thor" (2011)

"Midnight in Paris" (2011)

"The Avengers" (2012)

"Thor 2: The Kingdom of Darkness" (2013).

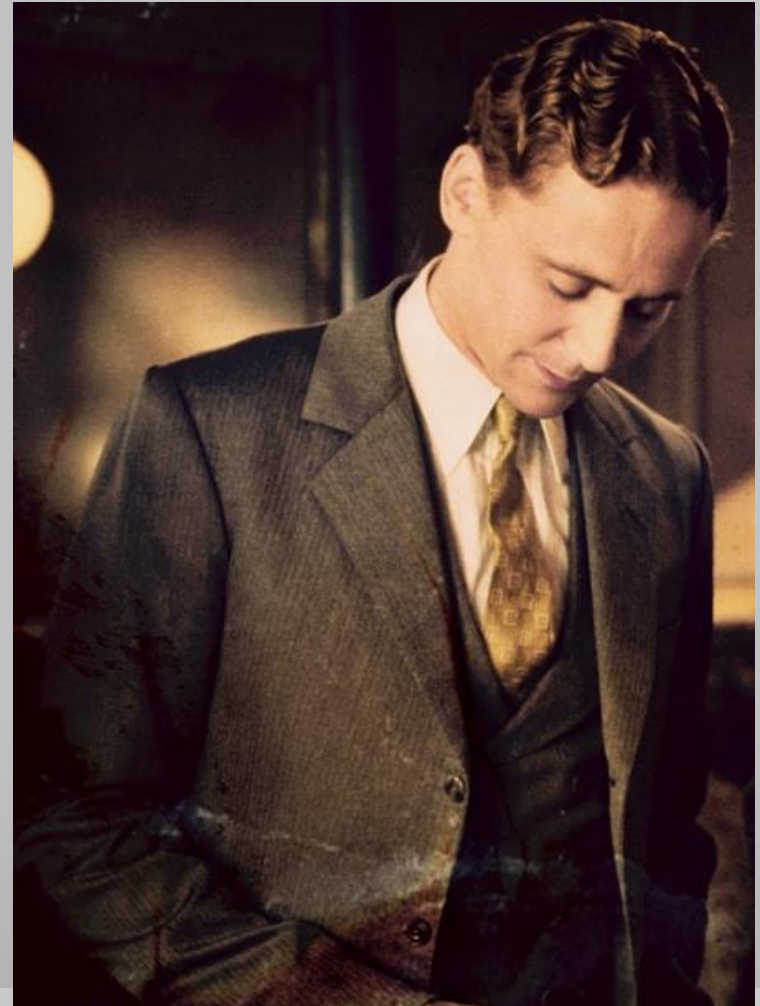

He studied at two independent schools: the school of the Dragon, Oxford and Eton College in Eton.

His first role Hiddleston played in the television movie "The Life and Adventures of Nicholas Nickleby" (2001).

Following his work has also been on television:
"Conspiracy" (2001), "Churchill" (2002), "The mystery of Shakespeare's sonnets" (2005), as well as some others, and TV series.

The real breakthrough for him was a contract with Marvel Studios now two films: "Thor" (2011) and "The Avengers" (2012), where he plays the role of Loki.

