INTRODUCTION

HUMAN RESOURCES

Human resources are resources similar to financial resources, equipment, etc.

Types of Resources

HR-Resources

People are human resources, and they need care as any other type of resources if you want them to last long in your organization and to generate organizational profit.

How do you take care of financial resources in your company? To do it correctly, you need to know the nature, qualities and attributes of money. (basically, what it likes and doesn't like).

How do you take care of hard resources (equipment) in your company? To do it correctly, you need to know the nature, qualities and attributes of hard resources. (basically, what they like and don't like).

How do you take care of natural resources? To do it correctly, you need to know the nature, qualities and attributes of natural resources. (basically, what they like and don't like).

How do you take care of human resources? To do it correctly, you need to know the nature, qualities and attributes of natural resources. (basically, what they like and don't like).

Let's first think about people in general.
What are the circumstances that help them work well?

Let's think about your future company.
What do employees need to bring profit to your company?
