Homlins and amber

Have you ever looked for a lost thing at home: a spoon or a sock of yours? If you have no idea who can grab it, I'll tell you in a second.

Actually, your home can be filled with homlins. They are believed to be tiny creatures hiding around and preoccupied with their own work.

Homlins can share some secrets with you. Are you all ears? Here we go...

Homlins and amber

Homlins recall the epoch of dinosaurs when trees were enormous and resin was dripping down their trunks. Since then it has been kept in blue clay for ages. Nowadays it is known as amber.

Homlins and amber

These days homlins make exquisite things from amber in their home workshop.

These can be pictures and clocks, earrings and lockets. They all look great in the sun.

Homlins and amber

Whenever you get to Baltic states, make sure you meet homlins and thank them for their creative ideas.

By the way, can you give this grandhomlin
from Kaliningrad
a memorable name?

Homlins and amber

And if you are interested in the history of amber, you may go to Yantarny in Kaliningrad Region and get to know how to achieve a certificate of an amber digger or hide inside an amber pyramid.
