

Beowulf

Linchenko Alexandra

«Beowulf» is the most important poem of the Anglo-Saxon period. The story was written down in the 10TH century by unknown author.

The character of Beowulf is a combination of features of a nephew of the king of Jutes and of various mythical heroes

The characters of villains who are opposed to Beowulf are:

The fire-dragon

Ogre Grendel

And his mother
(the water-witch)

The action takes place in Scandinavia. Beowulf defeats Grindelia in night combat, tearing his hand, and he dies in his lair. To avenge him, from the sea rises even more terrible enemy mother Grindelia.

The main content is in the stories about the victory of Beowulf over the terrible monsters Grendal and his mother, and devastating the country of the dragon.
