The job of my dream is a lawyer.
This profession assumes some personal qualities: he or she must be competent ,well
- educaded, well-organized, able to make decisions, be tolerant, eloquent, convincing.

On the one hand, many people now say that the profession of a lawyer isn't so extremely demanded. There are too many people with juridical diplomas who are not doing the job they were trained for.

On the other hand, the experts in this area repeat that there is a lack of well-prepared lawyers with proper education, trained in good institutes and universities.

There are also not enough lawyers in state services: investigators, prosecutors, judges. It is caused by a low salary, irregular working hours, hard moral work.

Besides, there is a huge risk for life because this profession is directed on fight against criminality.

The lawyers in state service carry out a huge amount of work though there is a stereotype in the society that all of them work bad and do nothing for fight against crime. I don't agree with it. After all, many of these lawyers try to perform their duty honestly and work hard despite many difficulties of life.

And I'm sure that the profession of the lawyer still remains popular and necessary all over the world. Good experts in this area are always required.

In the end, I want to say that whatever my future is it will be connected with law.
