

THE WORK OF POLICE

Our police was created by the working people to protect their rights. The militia officers have always displayed courage and heroism in the fight against enemies of our state during the Great Patriotic War.

In 2011 the name militia was changed. Now it's called police.

The main aim of police is:

- to maintain public order
- to protect state and personal property
- to safeguard the rights of our citizens.

Today great attention in the work of police is paid to prevention of crime, but if a crime has been committed, the police officers must solve the crime as quickly as possible.

The Organs of Internal Affairs are composed of different departments:

- the Criminal Detection Department
- the Criminal Investigation Department
- Economic Crimes Department
- the State Auto-Inspection
- the Transport police
- the Juvenile Inspection
- the Correctional System
- the Service for the fight against organized crime

The officers of the Criminal Detection Department must detect, locate and arrest the criminal, trace a fugitive who is hiding.

The officers of the Criminal Investigation Department must collect facts to prove the guilt or innocence of the suspect, to present the evidence in court and to provide competent witnesses.

The State Auto-Inspection is responsible for safety on the roads.

The Transport Police maintains Law and Order on the railway, air lines and water ways of the country.

The Juvenile Inspection works with «difficult» juveniles and their parents.
