Introduction

- The Headless Horseman is a powerful novel written by the English writer Mayne Reid . The story is set in America. The novel tells of an investigation into the murder of Henry Poindexter. Also in the vicinity of Texas, a mysterious headless horseman appears.

The main part

- The title of the novel is very unusual. This detective novel is rich and confused in the plot. The cunning constructed murder will hold your attention right up to the final page. The book contains touching moments. For example, a secret meeting of Maurice and his beloved Louise Poindexter . I would also like to note that the author describes very skillfully and colorfully the nature of America.

The main part

- In this novel Mayne Reid managed to create images of very different characters in character. Some of them are insidious, cruel. But others are very kind and merciful.
- Maurice is one of the main characters. He showed himself to be a real man, it was resolute and brave throughout history. I also liked Louise. The author depicted her as a very beautiful and strong-willed girl

Conclusion

- I really like this book. From the book I learned about the new country. America is very different from Russia. The only reservation of the book is its length. It has more over 400 pages, so it is rather long. But It is difficult to put the book down. I recommend this book to teens.

Thank you for your attention!
