My sports idol is Anton Shipulin. Russian biathlete, Olympic champion in the relay race in 2014, bronze medalist of the 2010 Olympic Games in the relay race, world champion in 2017 in the relay race, six-time medalist of the world championships. The owner of a small World Cup in the standings of the mass start (2014-2015). Absolute champion of Europe among juniors 2008. Two-time winner of the Champions race in the mixed relay, two-time winner of the Champions race in the mass start. Honored Master of Sports of Russia.

Born in a family of masters of sports in ski racing and biathologist - Vladimir Ivanovich Shipulina and Alla Abushaevna Shipulina (Abdyusheva). He began to study from an early age, at first under the guidance of my father I was engaged in cross-country skiing, but once I saw a rifle in a big sister engaged in biathlon, he got the idea to try my hand at biathlon. At the moment his coach is Andrey Kruchkov.

Anton trains in the winter sports center for them in the Filipenko Khanty Mansiysk. His goal: to win the Olympic gold 2018.

Since June 20, 2015 he is married to Louise Sabitova.

He has a son Dima, who was born on December 15, 2015

Anton's main rival is Martin Fourcade the French biathlete, the two-time Olympic champion in 2014 in the pursuit race and the individual race, the two-time silver medalist in the mass start (2010 and 2014), the 11-time world champion (including 10 times in the personal races), six-time winner of the World Cup in the overall standings.

The Charity Fund "The Fund for the Support of Sport in the Sverdlovsk Region A.V. Shipulina" was registered on November 19, 2010. When the prize-winner of the 2010 Olympic Games in Vancouver, Anton Shipulin visited the Irbit Children's Home, in which the children told about their desire to play sports. After this meeting, Anton was born the idea of creating a non-profit organization. The purpose of the fund: support for the younger generation, who loves sports and wants to actively pursue it. Mission: To contribute to the improvement and sustainable development of society through the implementation of sports programs in the Sverdlovsk region, making sports accessible to all segments of the population.

THANK YOU FOR ATTENTION 😊
