

Project

on topic

“Saying it without words
and distinctive peculiarities”

The project was completed out : Belyashonkov Mike

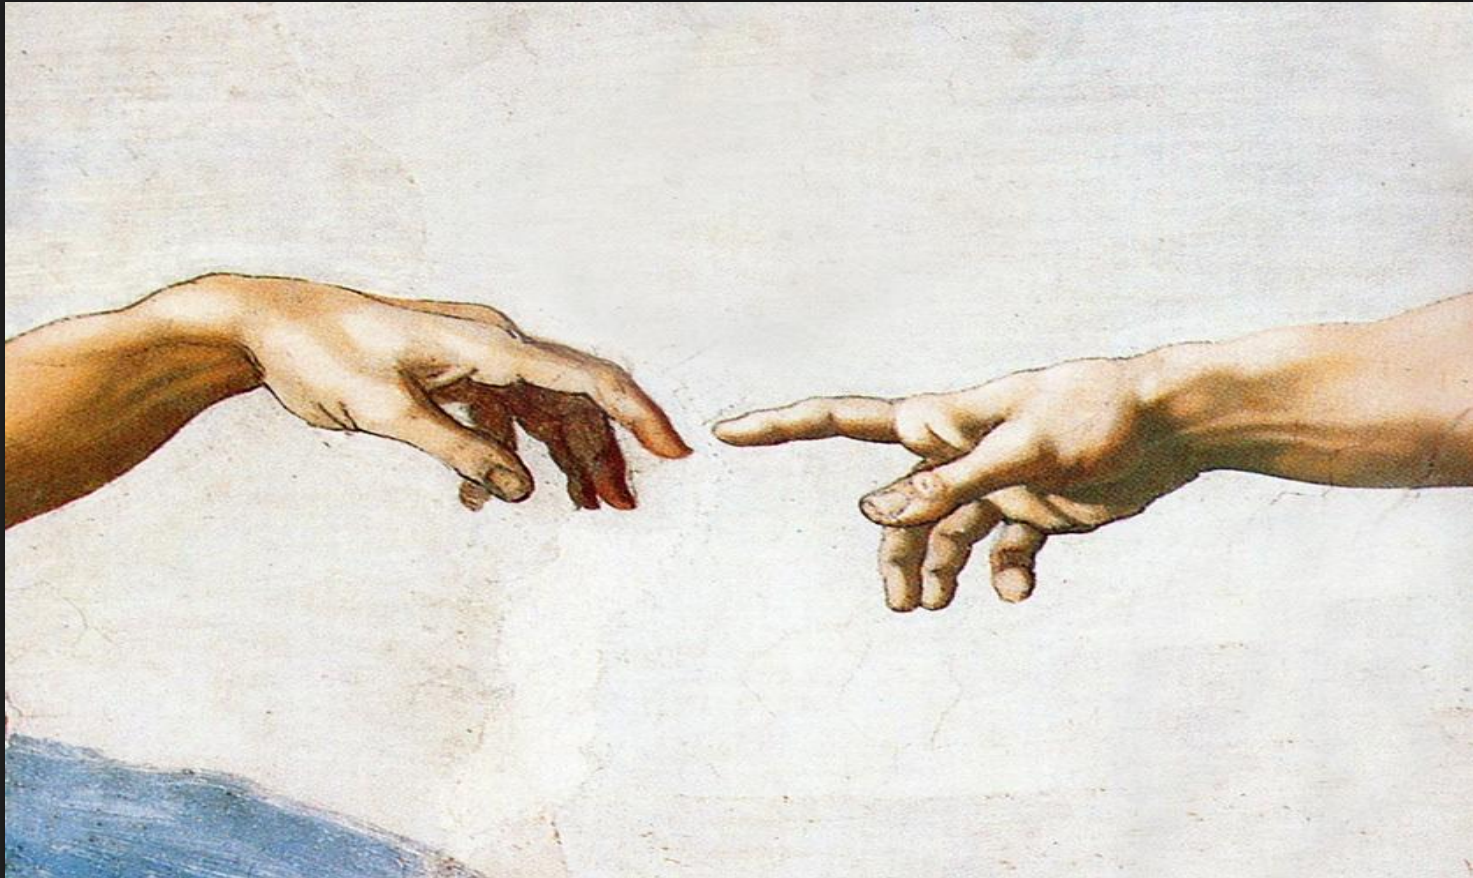

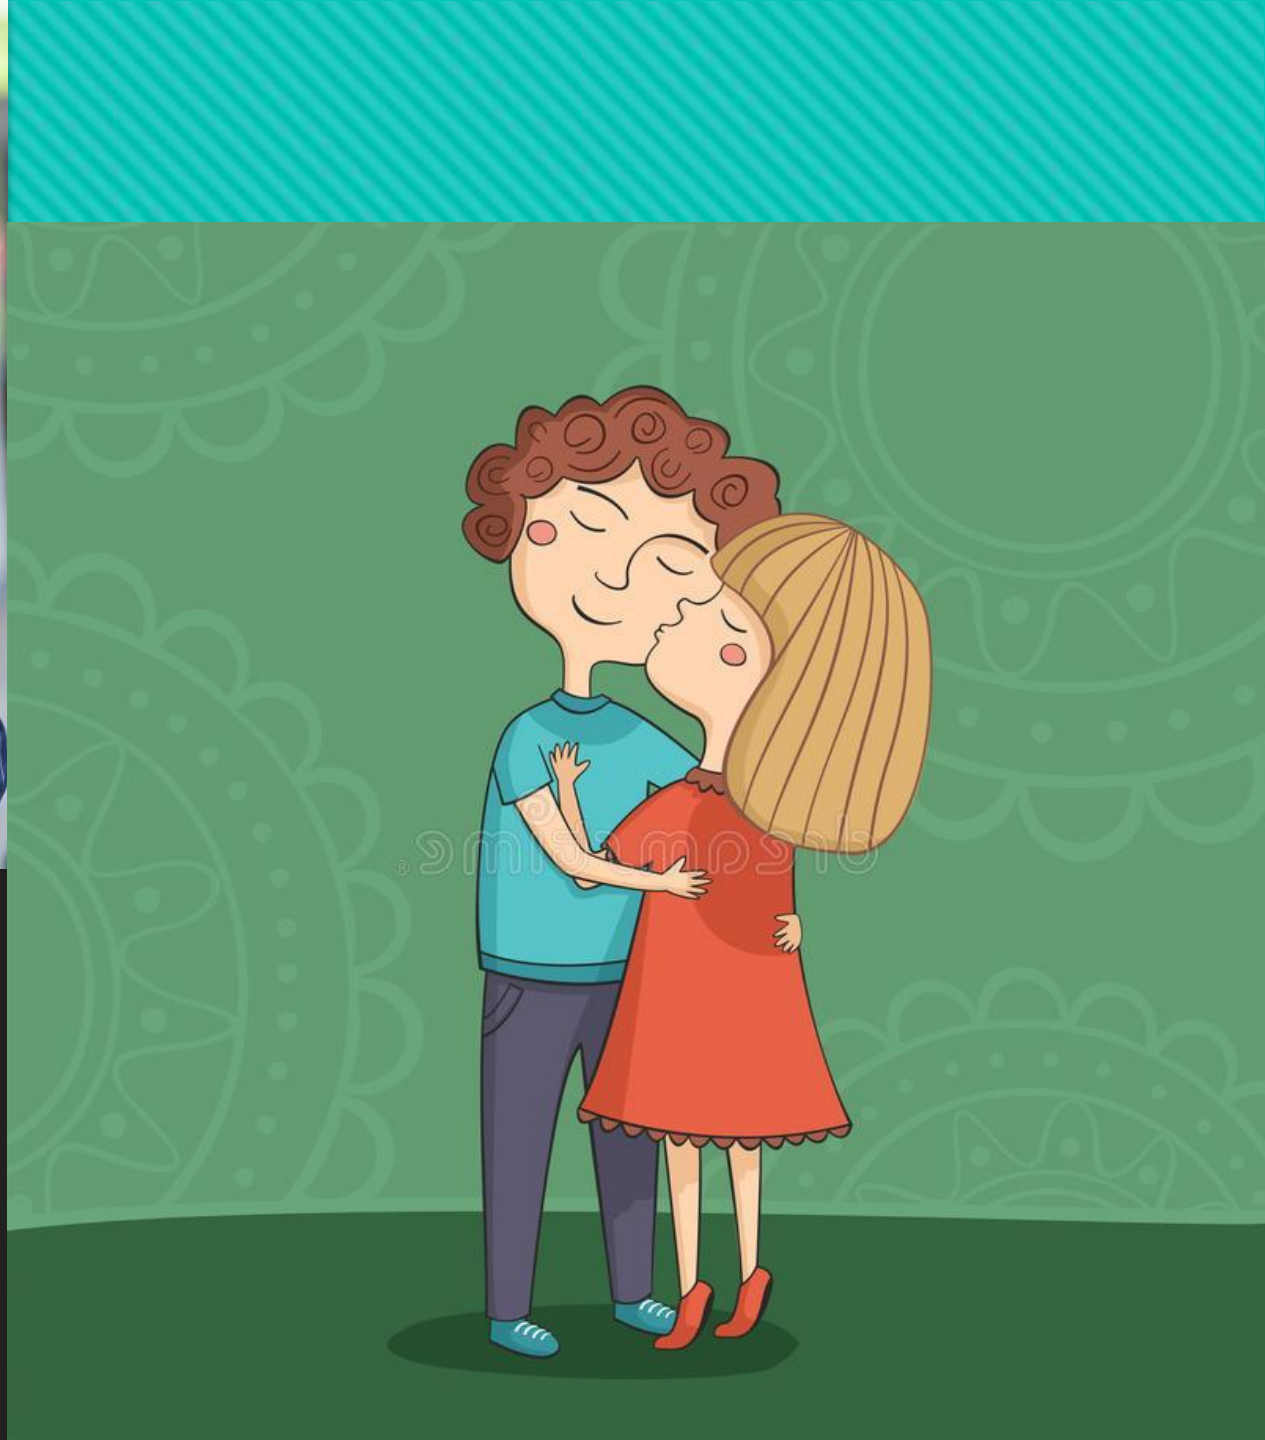

We use words to communicate with people, but we also use body language – particularly gestures and facial expressions. And different people have different body language

Older people in Britain usually shake hands when they meet for the first time, but young people don't do this very often. In France many people of all ages shake hands every time they see each – they say the French spend 20 minutes a day shaking hands!

Tactile contact.

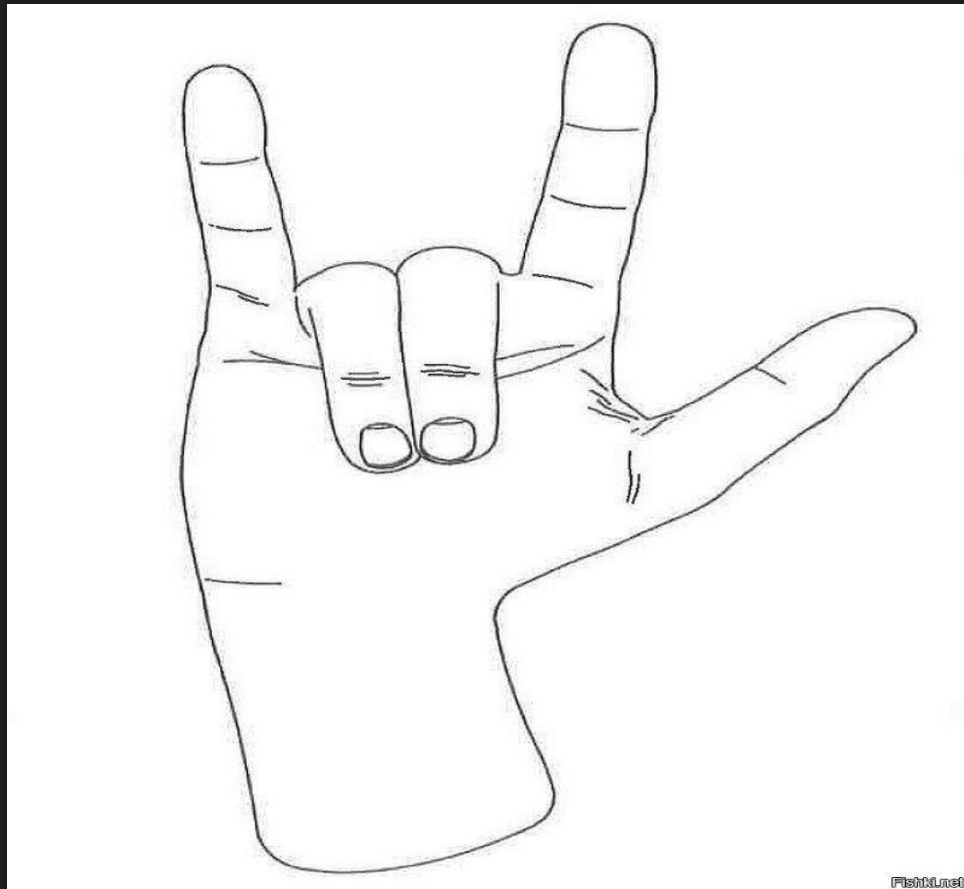

Winston's Churchill gesture.

Winston's Churchill gesture on the outstretched hand, turned to the speaker with the backside it means "victory". If the hand is differently, it is offensive.

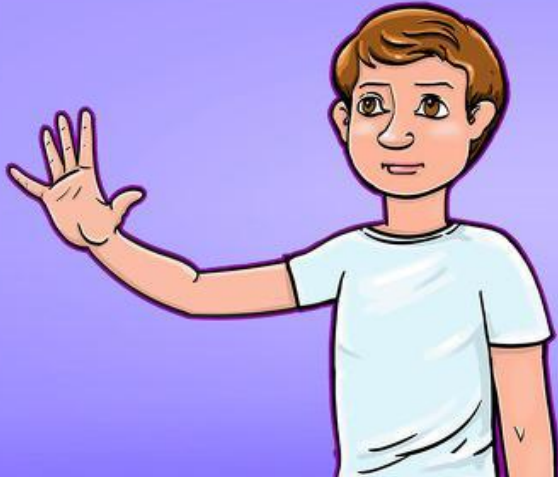

“I love you”

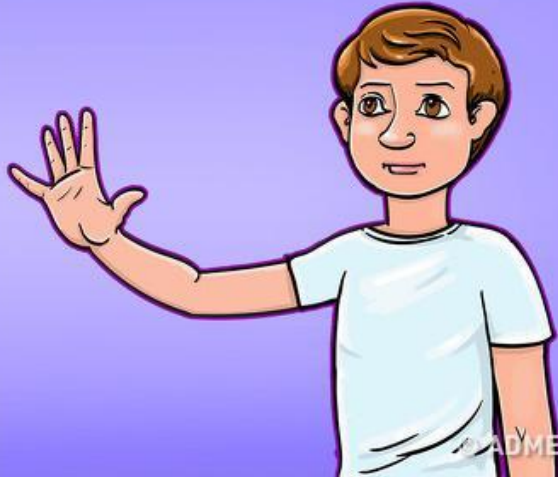

“I love you”

This gesture used by America stars and politicians such as Barack Obama and Hilary Clinton.

Most countries
"Stop!"

Greece
"Go you!"

Most countries
"Come to me"

Philippines:
"Used in relation to animals"

Most countries
"I'm tired of you"

Italy
"I don't care"

Most countries
You are fool

Holland
"You are very smart"

Most countries:
An extremely rude gesture

Asian countries
Indication of the subjects

Most countries
"All right"

France
"He is complete zero!"

Most countries:
Rude gesture

Brazil
Good luck

In coclusion.

In conclusion, I would like to wish all people a good journey.

“Travel!”

But first of all, before departure, you should get acquainted with the traditions of the country where you are going. Do not forget that you are Russians and carry your culture and respect the culture of other countries.