

Moscow State University

Strelnikova Elizabeth

History of University

- One of the oldest and largest classical universities in Russia. Since 1940, it bears the name of Mikhail Vasilyevich Lomonosov. The opening of the university took place in 1755. The number of students was 100 people. There were 3 faculties: philosophical, medical and juridical.

University in modern times

- The University has at its disposal more than 600 buildings and structures, including the Main Building on Vorobyovy Gory. Their total area is about 1 million m². Also, two buildings of the Medical Center were opened, consisting of a total of 5 buildings. Now there are 29 faculties, 9 research institutes, 600 buildings. 30 thousand students are studying.

The height of teaching MSU

- Has been 11 Nobel Prize winners among its professors and alumni, out of 18 Russians who have received the prestigious prize so far. Many more MSU scientists have been awarded various Soviet and Russian prizes for their achievements, among them 60 Lenin Prizes and 120 State Prizes, over 40 MSU scientists having received the State Prizes over the last decade.

MSU in ratings

- In 2013, MSU ranked 244th in the ranking of the Times Higher Education World University Rankings and 57th in the same reputational rating in 2014.
- In the reputational rating in 2016, MSU took the 30th place.

Thank you for attention!