Education

Education

The UK education system has evolved over many centuries and currently is subject to strict quality standards. Education in Britain is compulsory for all citizens aged from 5 to 16 years.

Education

In the UK there is a huge variety of schools.

Education

Preschool education in both public and private school. Often parents take their children to nursery at the age of 3-4 years.

Education

Most British children enter public elementary school at age 5, and then 11 years pass in the secondary education classes at the same school or be transferred to the College.

Education

Secondary education in England for children up to 16 years is compulsory. All public and private schools teach children from 11 to 16 years and prepare them to receive General certificate of secondary education.
