10 class

- The hippie subculture was originally a youth movement that arose in the United States during the mid-1960s and spread to other countries around the world.

- Hippie spread in the West, and also in Australia, Mexico and Chile.
- Hippie fashions and values had a major effect on culture, influencing popular music , television, film, literature, and the arts.

- The flowering of movement was in the late 1960s - early 1970s. Originally hippies protesting the Puritan morality of some Protestant churches, as well as promoted the desire to return to the natural purity through love and pacifism. One of the most famous slogans of the hippies: «Make love, not war!».

Hippies believe:

- that people should be free;
- that freedom can be achieved only by changing the internal structure of the soul;
- that beauty and freedom are identical to each other and that the implementation of one and the other is a purely spiritual problem;
- that spiritual community - an ideal form of the hostel
- that all who think otherwise are mistaken.

Lifestyle

- They don't conform to society's standards, showing this by dressing in unusual clothes, having long hair and living in groups together.
- For them loving means accepting others as they are, giving freedom to do as one pleases and to go where the flow takes you.

Appearance

- It is not so difficult to look like a traditional hippie ~ a pair of worn-out blue jeans, long hair tied with strings and a couple of decorative chains. They have noticed that if you are wearing your long hair and your jeans are old, you have easier time on the road.
