Handwriting practice showing the letters 'H' and 'O' written in blue ink on a set of three horizontal blue lines. The 'H' is a large, cursive letter that spans from the top line to the bottom line. The 'O' is a smaller, cursive letter that spans from the middle line to the bottom line. Three red dots are placed on the 'H' and 'O' to indicate starting points for writing: one at the top of the left vertical stroke of the 'H', one at the junction of the two vertical strokes, and one at the top of the right vertical stroke of the 'O'.
