Red Square is the main square in Moscow. It is the center of the city, and if you look at Moscow's plan, you will see that it is located in the center of the radial layout of the city.

The place for the present Red Square was identified during the reign of Ivan III, when the Kremlin was rebuilt. So, Red Square is allocated along the northeastern wall of the Kremlin.

There is the Lobnoye mesto, the monument to Minin and Pozharsky, Lenin's mausoleum, the Kremlin Wall Necropolis, GUM, the State Historical Museum, St. Basil's Cathedral, Kazan Cathedral in Red Square.

It is important to note that the area is a pedestrian zone. Vehicular traffic on the cobblestone square was banned in 1974.
