

Hello! I am
Harry Potter!
Let's go to Hogwarts!

A digital illustration of Harry Potter in a grand, gothic-style library. He is on the left, wearing his school uniform and a blue robe, holding several books. A thought bubble above him contains text. The library features high ceilings, arched windows with intricate tracery, and tall bookshelves. Warm light from lamps and windows creates a dramatic atmosphere.

The books are in a mess in our magic library!

Peter the Great founded St. Petersburg in 1703 as the capital of his Russian empire, and over 300 years later the city still attracts tourists from around the world.

It is a great option to go on a cruise from Moscow to St. Petersburg. There are so many sites to see in St. Petersburg that cruise boats usually stay for two or three nights. The city is wonderful for walking.

Leonardo da Vinci is one of the greatest artists in history. Leonardo was talented in many areas including drawing, painting, and sculpture. Although we don't have a lot of his paintings today, he is most famous for his art and also gained great fame during his own time due to his paintings. Two of his most famous works include the Mona Lisa and The Last Supper.

Europeans arrived in Canada more than a thousand years ago. However, they left and didn't return until 1497 when John Cabot explored the Atlantic Coast. Later explorers from other countries would arrive. The first permanent settlements were French. Later most of Canada became part of the British Empire. In 1831 Canada became a fully independent nation.

If you ever visit Museum Ludwig in Germany, don't miss the painting Lady in a Green Jacket. It was created by August Macke in 1913. In this painting a lady is standing in the park. She is wearing a dark green jacket. She is looking down. There are two couples walking away from her. You get the feeling that she is lonely. The painting has special light and colour.
