From 1397 to 1523 there was a personal union of the kingdoms of Denmark, Norway and Sweden under the supreme authority of the Danish kings. Countries sacrificed their sovereignty but retained broad autonomy.

Relations between Russia and Norway were established in 1905 after Norway gained independence. Russia has an embassy in Oslo and consulates in Barentsburg and Kirkenes; Norway maintains an embassy in Moscow and consulates in St. Petersburg, Murmansk and Arkhangelsk.
