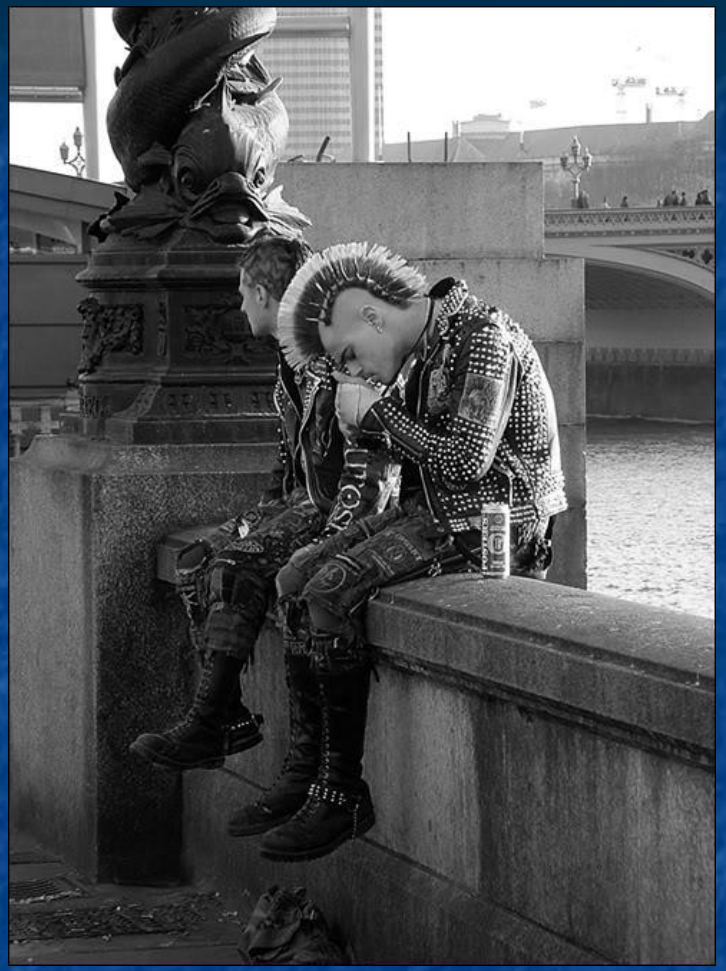
Punks

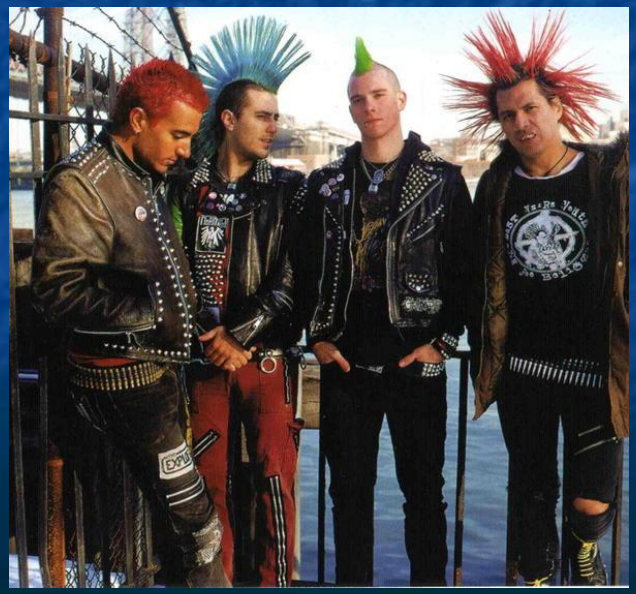
- In the 1970s, times were hard. Unemployment was growing higher and higher, especially amongst the young, and many teenagers felt that society was to blame.

A youth culture started up which expressed these negative feelings - punk.

- Punk rock tried to shock people; while the hippies were talking about love and peace, punks were full of hate.

- They thought normal pop music was boring and listened to bands like the Sex Pistols.





- Punks chose clothes that their parents hated. They wore ripped T-shirts, Doc Marten boots and leather jackets, and often had brightly coloured spiked hair.

All fest

www.relaxic.net

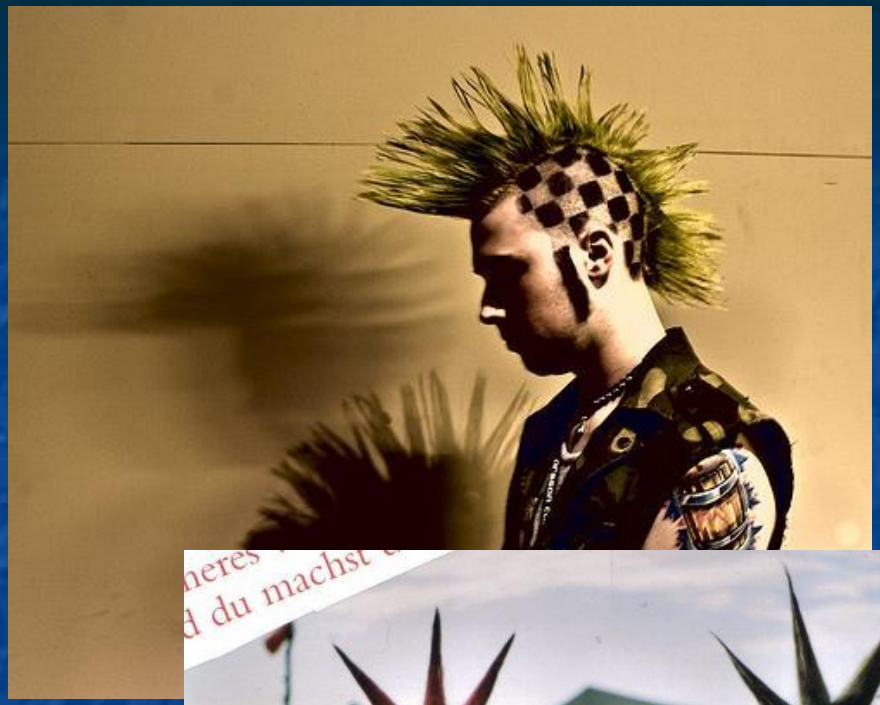
EXPLOITED
PUNKS

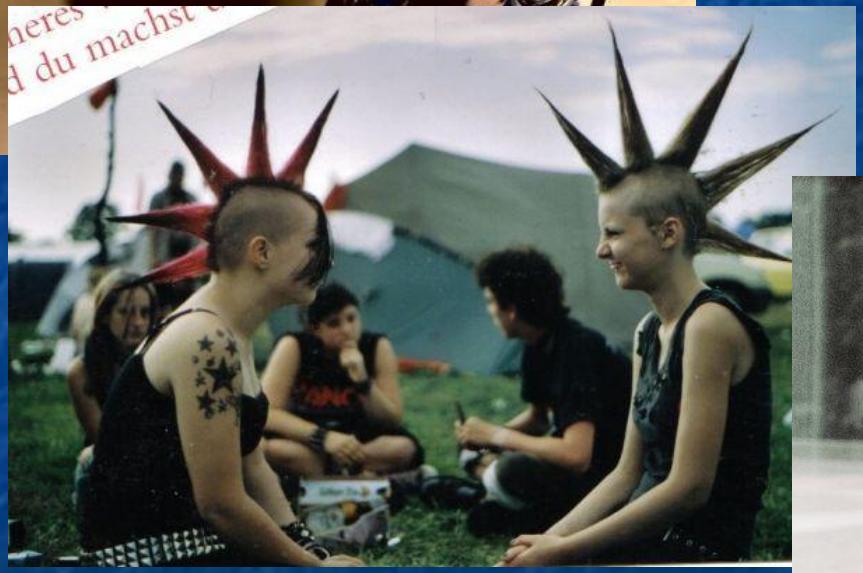
www.Viona-Art.com©

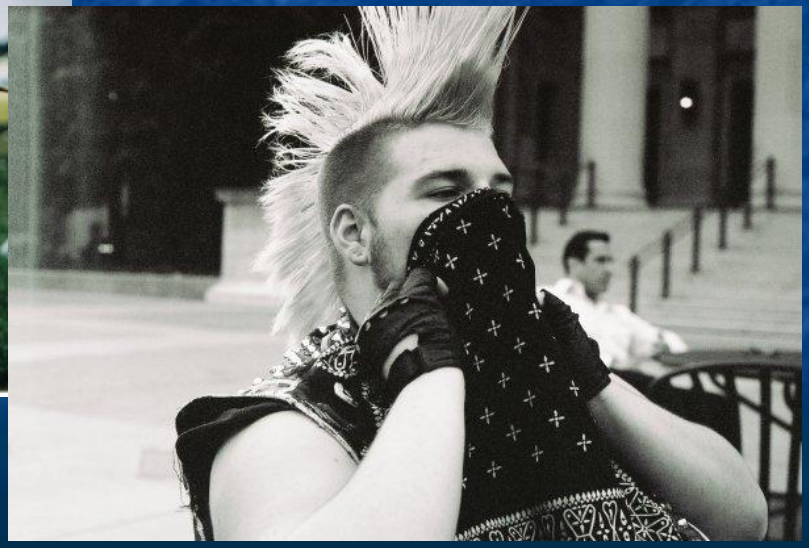
Johnny Rockets
Randrs.ru

CORPUSCUL.NET

DreamWorlds.ru







Answer the following questions.

1. When did the subculture of punks appear?
2. What feeling did punks express?
3. What music did they listen to?
4. What clothes did punks choose?
5. What was special about their hair?