

USA

A dark blue, solid-colored shape that starts as a thin line at the bottom left and expands diagonally upwards to the right, filling the bottom right portion of the image.

The United States of America is a state in North America. The area is 9.5 million km² (the 4th place in the world). The population is 325 million people (2016, estimate, 3rd place in the world). The United States has a federal form of organization, administratively divided into 50 states and the Federal District of Columbia; in their subordination there is also a number of island territories (Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam and others).

The capital is the city of Washington, DC, and the largest city in the world is the city of New York. The United States borders the north with Canada, in the south - with Mexico, also have a maritime border with Russia. They are washed by the Pacific Ocean from the west, by the Atlantic Ocean - from the east and the Arctic Ocean - from the north.

The United States is a highly developed country with the world's first economy with nominal GDP and the second with GDP. Although the country's population is only 4.3% of the world's population, Americans own about 40% of the world's total wealth.

The United States of America consists of 50 states that are equal subjects of the federation, the capital's federal district of Columbia and dependent territories. Each state has its own constitution, legislative, executive and judicial powers. Most of the names of states come from the names of Indian tribes and the names of the kings of England and France.

