

Korney Chukovsky

- In 1907 Chukovsky published translations of Walt Whitman. The book became popular, which increased the fame of Chukovsky in the literary environment.

- He translated and M. TWAINE , Chesterton, O. Henry, A. Doyle, U. Shakespeare, wrote for children retelling of the works of D. Defoe, RE Raspe, J. Greenwood.

In 1957 the Chukovsky was awarded the degree of doctor of philological Sciences in 1962 honorary doctorate of literature from Oxford University. As a linguist Chukovsky wrote a witty and spirited book about the Russian language "Live as life" (1962), strongly against bureaucratic stamps, the so-called "kancelaria".

As a translator Chukovsky was engaged in translation theory, creating one of the most respected in this field books - "High art" (1968).
