Vocaloid

Vocaloid is a singing voice synthesizing program.

Widely known Vocaloid received through the Japanese company Crypton Future Media, created the official mascot for their programs.
Japan - a country of idols. Country stars of the entertainment industry.

The new star of Japanese pop scene - Vocaloid

One of the most popular Vocaloid characters became Hatsune Miku.

Despite the fact that the girl is not real, in the truest sense of the word, only in 2009 in Japan it sold over 4 million copies of her album, and the Internet is filled with clips of her participation.

footage from a live concert

- March 9, 2010, in honor of thanksgiving, the concert hall in Zepp Tokyo was a live holographic concert Miku.
The event had a symbolic name 39's Thanksgiving Day. The music was specially assembled for presentation to the group called - "39".

- Hero of the occasion, appeared in the middle of a huge stage, moving the stage, danced and chatted with fans. The choreography was pre-modeled and displayed by the projector in full human growth, creating a full sense of the presence of the live performer.

Project Vocaloid is not only famous for the concerts.

Great fame for performers holograms brought the games and videos on the Internet.

Released a considerable amount of accessories, anime figures, shirts and more. The image of Miku has been used a couple of times in various anime, but the full participation of this name will not be released. Also the software became models and took an active part in advertising for example cars.

Vocaloid performing on big stages and sing along with real people