Advantages of the Internet

Real-time communication

The same applies to real-time communication, video communication, etc. With the help of the Internet, we can communicate with relatives, friends, even with people from other countries, continents.

Advantages

- Quick exchange of information
Today, sending an email via email takes a few seconds.
- Extensive Internet capabilities

Computer technologies make it possible to get distance education. You can earn money on the Internet. You don't have to go to the stores, because there are virtual stores, you don't have to go to a friend for a document, because he can send it by email, etc. Thanks to the worldwide network, many things can be done much faster.

- Quick access to any information

To get some information, you had to search for hours in the library, rummage through dozens of books. Today, the search engine will do all this work for you in just a few seconds. In electronic encyclopedias, you can get media materials on any topic.

Internet

The level of education is falling

If earlier everyone had to copy articles from books, today it is enough to press CTRL+P, and the abstract is already on paper. And a ready-made someone else's essay, downloaded from the site. Naturally, many young people do not study as they should.

Disadvantages

- We began to communicate less live

Now young people are more likely to communicate on social networks, and before everyone went out and showed photos to each other in the real world, not in the virtual one. Without social networks, life was very different, more interesting.

- Disinformation

Who checks the information on the network for accuracy? Nobody. Accordingly, there is a high probability that the information you received is incorrect, with all the consequences that follow from this.
