The place is truly blessed - almost thirty kilometers of clean sandy beaches, generous sun, curative air and warm sea. Modern linguists give a variant of the semantic meaning of the toponym Avaza, as "the edge of singing waves". And everything in this region from the point of view of natural grace and ecological purity, as if it was created for health tourism, but without the modern resort infrastructure Avaza remained a little rest area.

Vacation on the Caspian sea has left a mixed impression. On the one hand, the conditions are good, prices too, and on the other – did not leave a feeling of some stiffness, stiffness. There was no ease that you feel at other resorts, where you relax both body and soul.
