

A detailed painting of a snowy winter scene. In the center is a large, two-story stone house with a steep gabled roof, several arched windows, and a prominent chimney. The house is decorated with Christmas wreaths on its doors and windows, and warm light is visible through the windows. To the left, a set of stone steps leads up to the house, where a man in a red coat and a woman in a blue dress are standing. A small brown dog sits on the snow near the steps. Two street lamps with red bows are on either side of the steps. In the foreground, a stream flows from the right, with a wooden footbridge crossing it. The banks of the stream are lined with snow-covered bushes and rocks. The background features tall evergreen trees heavily laden with snow, and a bright, colorful sunset or sunrise behind them.
