

New Year in Italy.

Italy

Italy - a country of joy and pleasure , it is not surprising that the New Year's Eve is held noisy and fun . By the number of days set aside for the celebration of Christmas and New Year , it probably ranks first among European countries. So , the holidays are starting from 24 December (Christmas Day) and continue until January 6 (Baptism) .

What give the Italians .

for example, one of my friends Italian collects dolls , and the second is constantly brings home a jar of red caviar , a third collects paintings by Russian artists (on the street , " exhibitions " and in small shops , workshops , he manages to seek out cool things) , the fourth Italian loves Russian pop music , the fifth Italian gathers unusual spoon ...

How the new year.

In Italy New Year's Eve , no one can sleep : fireworks blaze in the sky until morning , like firecrackers . What is interesting this tradition ? Italians launch fireworks and firecrackers not only a sign of the New Year celebration : they honestly believe that loud noise scares away evil spirits , which can appear in the coming year . In Italy, there is a perception that the coming year will take place in the same way as the first of January. Therefore, after the Italian New Year's Eve will never take or lend money or work .

What do Italians eat

What is eaten on New Year's in Italy? Among the traditional dishes on New Year's table is required to be present domestic kapelletti , truffles , smoked salmon , kampone , turkey , almond cakes , panettone , reminiscent of Easter cake decorated with raisins , dried fruits and candied fruits , steam cod or perch with white wine . In Italy, to New Year's table should be served grapes, nuts, lentils as a symbol and a guarantee of longevity , health and prosperity .
