English in European integration

Margaritova Lyubov

Group 552

| LEGEND  |            |
|---|------------|
| Terra with population of over $90,000 aboves dear  | Lon        |
| Towns with population of over 100.000 alones these  | Lond       |
| Towns with population of over 20,000 aboves their   | Londo      |
| Terrar with population of under 20200 down thanCapitals of enciences down thanPrincipal Railcoule down data | insta® |
| Elevations of principal lakes and memories peaks (a, ) above any level shows that                                   | R. 409 FL  |

Lingua franca is

- a neutral instrument for 'international' communication between speakers who do not share a mother tongue;
- a culturally neutral medium that puts everyone on an equal footing.

English language is not only lingua franca, but also

- a lingua economica;
- a lingua emotive;
- a lingua academica;
- a lingua cultura;
- a lingua bellica.

 English has dual nature as a language international understanding, human rights, development, progress etc, but also as a colonizing language.

 American linguist John Swales claims that other European languages of scholarship are on the way to extinction. One of the most visible causal factors of English language's entry into most European countries is cultural globalization in the media, which utilize the original language in the north of Europe:

70-80% of all TV fiction shown on European TV is American.

But in the USA the market share of films of foreign origin is only 1%.

The cultural insularity of the US and the UK is also clear from the figures for translation:

2% of books published in the UK, and 3% in the USA are translations from other languages

whereas the corresponding figures for Italy are 27%, for Denmark 41%, and Slovenia 70%

Today in EU-US negotiations, English is the sole language involved. This is in conflict with the declared policy that in the EU's international relations, the multilingualism that characterizes its internal affairs should also apply. Externally the EU has become monolingual.

Thank you for your attention!