

Merry Christmas

The British still do not attach much importance to the New Year. For them, the main winter holiday is Christmas, which is celebrated all over Europe 25th December. Despite the fact that many already regard it not as a religious holiday, but rather as a pleasant tradition, in the UK there is hardly a person who does not celebrate this bright and cozy holiday.

Christmas tree

- Towards the middle of December in the house set a Christmas tree. In English it is called the Christmas tree. Traditional colors decorations - red, green and gold. The British do not like brightness and try to sustain a certain style in jewelry. From England came the fashion to hang on the prickly paws sweets for children. Christmas tree made clean not earlier than 12 days after Christmas. By the way speaking, in the United Kingdom pending noisy party until 5 January, as it happens on New Year's holidays in Russia.

Christmas dinner

- Today, the main dish of Christmas dinner, turkey is considered, although in the 19th century its place was occupied by cheaper goose. However, in the rest of the British and here do not change the traditions. If you want to play English Christmas dinner at home, at your desk means should be baked potatoes and chestnuts, bacon, parsnips and Brussels sprouts.
