

THE CAUSATIVE FORM

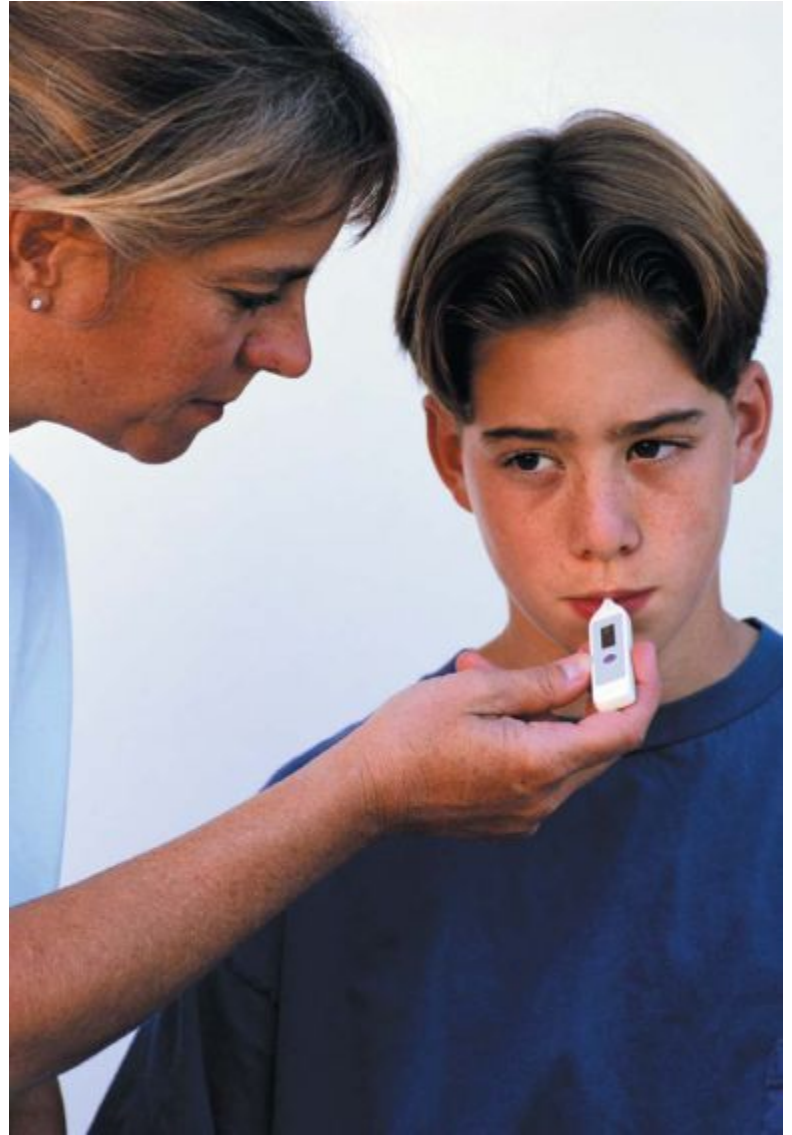

Simon is having
his temperature
taken.

Simon is getting
his temperature
taken.

Simon is having his Mum take his temperature.

Simon is getting
his Mum to take his temperature.

Causative Form

- have something done

- get something done

- have someone do

- get someone to do

- Present Simple have
- Present Continuous am/is/are having
- Past Simple had
- Past Continuous was/were having
- Present Perfect Simple has/have had
- Present Perfect Continuous has/have been having
- Past Perfect Simple had had
- Past Perfect Continuous had been having

- Future Simple will have
- Future Continuous will be having
- Future Perfect Simple will have had
- Future Perfect Continuous will have been having
- Infinitive (to) have
- Gerund having

- Present Simple get
- Present Continuous am/is/are getting
- Past Simple got
- Past Continuous was/were getting
- Present Perfect Simple has/have got
- Present Perfect Continuous has/have been getting
- Past Perfect Simple had got
- Past Perfect Continuous had been getting

- Future Simple will get
- Future Continuous will be getting
- Future Perfect Simple will have got
- Future Perfect Continuous will have been getting
- Infinitive (to) get
- Gerund getting

She is painting
her portrait.

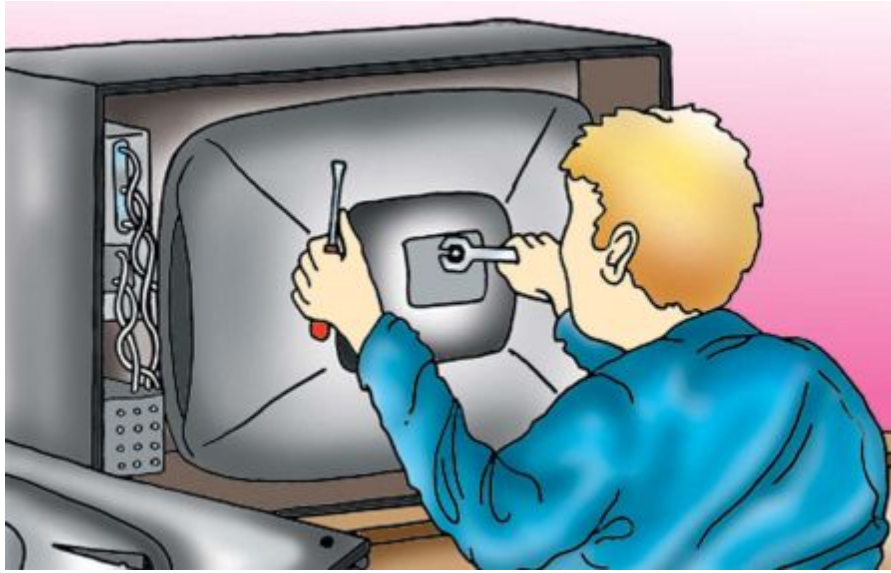

She is having her portrait painted.

She is getting her portrait painted.

She is having a painter paint her portrait.

She is getting a painter
to paint her portrait.

He will repair the TV set.

He will have the TV set repaired.

He will get the TV set repaired.

He is having a technician repair the TV set.

He is getting a technician to repair the TV set.

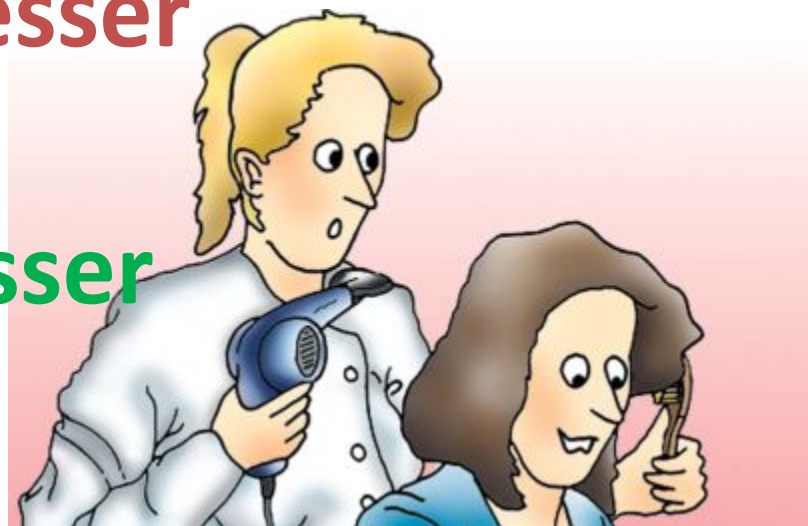

She had dried her hair.

She had had her hair dried.

She had got her hair dried.

She had had the hairdresser
dry her hair.

She had got the hairdresser
to dry her hair.

He was measuring his blood pressure.

He was having his blood pressure measured.

He was getting his blood pressure measured.

He was having a doctor measure his pressure.

He was getting a doctor to measure his pressure.

The optician tested her eyes.

She had her eyes tested (by the optician).

She got her eyes tested (by the optician).

She had the optician test her eyes.

She got the optician to test her eyes.

The mechanic repairs his car.

He has his car repaired (by the mechanic).

He gets his car repaired (by the mechanic).

He has the mechanic repair his car.

He gets the mechanic to repair his car.

