Read the text on page 94

In the year 2000 strange paintings appeared on the sides of buildings in Bristol and London. These weren't drawings by bored [bo:d] teenagers

They were funny and very artistic. But who was the artist? Nobody knew [nju:].

Over the next few [fju:] years more and more of these amazing pictures appeared

Usually people hate graffiti: they think it's ugly and unattractive, just a form of vandalism [vændəlizm].
And of course it's illegal.
But this work was different

Some of the paintings were funny, some were frightening [fraitənin], but they were always interesting and original

Some people said the artist was called Banksy. But who was Banksy? It became a huge [hju:dʒ] mystery and several newspapers tried to find out Banksy's real identity [ai'dentiti]

It was fantastic publicity for the artist and his work became famous in America and Australia. In 2007 a gallery in London sold one of his paintings for $576000

In 2009 Bristol City Art Gallery organized an exhibition [ekzi'bɪʃən] of his work. More than 300000 visitors came to the exhibition [ekzi'bɪʃən]

But nobody knew [nju:] Banksy's real name, not even the manager of the gallery

Of course, some people think it's shocking that paintings on the sides of buildings can be art. But these days anything is art!

J – Jenny
S - Serge

J: I am going to the Banksy exhibition [ekzi'biʃən]. Do you want to come?

S: Is it expensive?

J: No, it's free

S: No, thanks. I don't like going to exhibitions [ekzi'bɪʃənz] really. They're boring

J: But Banksy's really good.
I love his work

S: Who's Banksy? Is he famous?

J: Yes, he's a really famous modern artist. He paints graffiti on the sides of buildings

S: That sounds stupid. I prefer traditional paintings to modern ones. Anyway, I want to stay at home. It's the final [fainəl] of Pop Star Search on TV this evening

J: Oh, no. I hate listening to those stupid kids singing

S: Well, I love it. It's so exciting

J: It's rubbish

S: Oh, you hate everything on TV

J: No, I don't. But I like serious programs more than talent shows

J: I prefer watching films or documentaries. Programs that make you think

S: But I don't want to think when I watch TV. I just want to relax

Are you listening?
