Read the dialogue. How many games are mentioned? What do they decide to do in the end?

Tom: Jim, are you doing anything?

Jim: Nothing much. I am listening to music and waiting for the rain to stop. I am playing baseball at 5:00.

Tom: You are always playing with your friends.

Jim: Don't say that. You know I play baseball every Tuesday.

Tom: Do you want to play something with me for a change?

Jim: Like what? And don't say Monopoly, backgammon or scrabble. They're boring.

Tom: Yes, I bet it's boring when you always lose.

Jim: I don't care about losing.

Tom: Yeah right. You suggest something then.

Jim: How about darts?

Tom: That's not fair. You're tall and always get more points.

Jim: Tommy, it's not about who wins or loses but how you play the game!

Tom: You are right. Darts then.

Put the events in the correct order

Both children and adults around the world love playing Snakes and Ladders. Snakes and Ladders is not a modern game. It comes from an old Indian game. It is a game about good and evil.

Snake and Ladders is a game for two to six players. To play it, you need the board, a dice and some counters. You start at square number ONE and you move your counter the number of squares shown on the dice. When you land on a square at the bottom of a ladder you go UP to the top of the ladder, but when you land on a snake you go DOWN to the tail of the snake. Whoever gets to the last square first wins!

Cluedo.

England, 1943. Anthon Pratt invents Cluedo and his wife designs the board. Waddington Games buys the idea, releases the game in 1949 and it becomes a great success. The aim of the game is to find out the identity of the killer of Mr. Black, the murder weapon and the scene of the crime. In order to do that, players move around the house and ask the other players questions. The first player to solve the crime wins.

Monopoly.

USA, 1934. Charles Darrow invents the Monopoly board game and make the first 5000 sets of the game himself! The aim of the game is to make as much money as possible. In order to do that players buy, sell and rent property. One by one, the players run out of money, and the last player left is the winner. Today, Monopoly is the best selling board game in the world with sales of over 200 million sets in different countries.

Scrabble.

New York, 1933. Alfred Butts notices how popular crossword puzzles are and comes up with the idea of Scrabble.

In Scrabble players pick seven letter tiles at random and then try to make words using their letters. Players get bonus points for using certain squares on the board and using letters like Q and Z. The player with the most points at the end of the game wins.

Read the dialogue. What does Greg buy for Judy?

Shop assistant: Good morning. How can I help you?

Greg: Good morning. I am looking for a birthday present for a friend.

Shop assistant: Is it for a girl or a boy?

Greg: It's for my friend Judy. She is twelve tomorrow.

Shop assistant: What does your friend like doing in her free time?

Greg: She likes playing board games and meeting friends.

Shop assistant: What about a jigsaw puzzle then?

Greg: That's a good idea. How much are they?

Shop assistant: This one has 5000 pieces and costs €18.

Greg: I'm afraid that's too expensive. I only have €15.

Shop assistant: Let me see. Does she like painting?

Greg: Yes, she loves drawing and making things.

Shop assistant: How about this puppet making set? It's only €13.

Greg: That's great. I'll take it.

Shop assistant: Would you like me to wrap it?

Greg: Yes please.
